Bryce Powell

University of Virginia – School of Architecture, Class of 2002

Designer of Independence Lodge

This is totally awesome!

INDEPENDENCE LODGE is the future home for many programs offered by Therapeutic Adventures. Bryce Powell is a 2002 graduate University of Virginia School of Architecture, and long time volunteer with our winter programs at Massanutten Adaptive Snow Sports. Bryce donated hundreds of hours of service to design and develop our future home.

Bryce has captured a design consistent with our belief and commitment to the Circle of Courage (Belonging, Mastery, Independence and Generosity). The circular perimeter of Bryce's design reinforces the continuous long term focus of our programs. Similar to the time and effort required to meet the challenges associated with a disability, the INDEPENDENCE LODGE design reflects an evolution of several hundred of hours of work to fine tune the final product. Bryce has combined his passion and understanding of the needs our adaptive outdoor athletes with his knowledge and expertise to develop an aesthetically unique and accessible facility.

Many weekends throughout the winter months, Bryce also could be found on the slopes of Massanutten volunteering as an adaptive snow sports instructor. He is one of our best!
